Eriez® Announces Promotion of Mackowski to Metalworking Product Manager

Erie, Pa. — Eriez® has promoted John Mackowski to the newly created position of Metalworking Product Manager. He will continue to report to Dan Zimmerman, Director of Business Development.

In his new role, Mackowski will be responsible for product management of Eriez' Hydroflow® and Magnamation products. "John will serve as the main liaison between field sales, engineering, production control and manufacturing on product-related issues," explains Zimmerman.

"As Metalworking Product Manager, John will support the continued integration of the recently acquired Hydroflow product line," says Zimmerman

Mackowski's expanded duties include serving as project coordinator on large filtration orders, coordinating the many aspects and parties involved in system orders. Additionally, Mackowski will be responsible for the traditional product management role of customer and field sales support, literature, marketing and trade show support, development of training and sales support materials, as well as coordination of product development with Sales, Engineering and R&D.

"John's background and degree in Mechanical Engineering, his experience at Eriez in Engineering and Sales and his deep understanding of Eriez' business processes will help him achieve success in his new role," Zimmerman comments. "John brings a lot of talent and enthusiasm to Eriez. We are lucky to have him on our team."
